Frequently Asked Questions

Will my data be secure?

Your Edge Anywhere data is housed on secure servers in Constellation's data center. Each Edge Anywhere customer has their own SQL Server database and there is no co-mingling or sharing of data. Your Edge Anywhere Windows client accesses your hosted data via HTTPS which is a secure, encrypted protocol used for Internet commerce and credit card transactions. If you cease to be an Edge Anywhere customer, your data is removed from all Constellation servers and storage devices.

Is my data backed up?

Constellation support services backs up all of your data on a nightly basis.

When do I have access to my data?

Your Edge Anywhere Windows client has access to your data at all times except during the hours of 3:00 AM to 5:00 AM EST when systems backups and maintenance are being performed.

Who is considered a user?

The Edge Anywhere service is charged on a named user basis. Individual logins MUST be created for each user who will access Edge Anywhere data via the Windows client. Constellation reserves the right to audit your user base. Users who no longer access Edge Anywhere data can be deactivated so they are present for historical reporting but cannot access the system and incur no charges.

Can I add users?

Yes, you can add additional Edge Anywhere users at any time through the user manager module. Added users incur service charges in the quarter they are added to the system.

What kind of Internet connection do I need?

Even though Edge Anywhere is a Windows desktop application, like a browser application the Edge Anywhere client needs access to its database. This access occurs via a web services based Internet connection with the Constellation servers on which your instance of the Edge Anywhere database is being hosted. The Edge Anywhere Internet connection to its database has been highly optimized to make it very efficient, but to work with Edge Anywhere most efficiently, Constellation recommends that all users have a broad band Internet connect. To a point, the faster this connection, the better Edge Anywhere will perform in regards to saving data, opening forms and downloading or uploading files back and forth between the database and the user. In most ways, Edge Anywhere's performance is similar to the performance of a browser based database application and users of a dial up or small bandwidth connection will generally find the performance unacceptable.

Is there a limit to the size of the files I can upload and store in Edge Anywhere?

There is no file size limit. However, the realistic limit will be based on your Internet connection and how long you want to wait for the file to be saved or how long you want to wait for the file to display if you want to view a saved file. You are welcome to do some testing with your connection but, in general, Constellation does not suggest storing files larger than 2-3 MB.

How am I billed?

Edge Anywhere Base Software and Web Portal services are billed quarterly in advance (you will receive an invoice one month before the next billing quarter begins). Payment is due before the first day of the billing quarter. Users who have been added during the previous billing quarter will be billed for retroactively as well as for the quarter due. Edge Anywhere billing quarters begin on the 1st of January, April, July and October. Clients who begin service on other dates will have the first period billing prorated.

The Edge Anywhere TValue service is billed once yearly. It is user based and is billed the first month a user starts using the system and then annually on the 1st of January after that. A user is billed for the yearly fee no matter what portion of the year the user uses the service.

Credit bureau connection charges and Support Services charges are billed on a monthly basis. One time charges are billed at the time of the service.

When do I pay?

Edge Anywhere Base Software and Web Portal services are payable quarterly in advance.

All other services and charges are payable within 30 days of billing.
